

present Ken Lackman's

Fun Substitution Drills

An ESL Teacher Development Workshop

A collection of universal substitution drills that:

- ◆ are very engaging, student-centred and fun.
- ◆ can be used with virtually any grammar or vocabulary.
- ◆ can be used to practice writing or speaking.
- ◆ get students to use their creativity and humour.
- ◆ have students working in groups competing against other groups.
- ◆ are an effective way to provide controlled practice.

$30* 10 classroom activities!

*There is a group rate of $25 for three or more people.

5-page handout included!

Approved for TESL Ontario PD credits

Limited to 20 participants

To reserve, email klackman@kenlackman.com.

Registration deadline is the day before the session.

Thursday Dec. 6th 18:00 – 19:30

ILSC Toronto

443 University Avenue - Room 516

You're invited to stay after the workshop for a Networking Party, which will take place at the Duke of Cornwall.

Ken Lackman spent seven years in Prague teaching English and developing teaching materials for The Caledonian School. He left in 2002 to do the DELTA course in Wroclaw, Poland before returning to Toronto in 2003. After five years as Director of Studies at EF Toronto, he left to pursue a career as a freelance teacher trainer and writer. He has had several articles published in English Teaching Professional. He also spent three years as a CELTA trainer at Greystone College and is currently working as an ESL/EAP instructor and curriculum coordinator at Ryerson University.

Methods and activities for more effective teaching with less preparation