

Ken Lackman & Associates

Educational Consultants

present a repeat of the IATEFL 2019 session

Extracting Universal Chunks

An ESL Teacher Development Workshop

A new method of teaching vocabulary that:

- ◆ deals with lexical chunks.
- ◆ requires no teaching or understanding of terminology.
- ◆ challenges students to find chunks and determine their usefulness.
- ◆ trains students to be autonomous learners.
- ◆ involves all four skills and is easy to implement.
- ◆ is fun, funny and very student-centred.

$30*

*There is a group rate of $25 for three or more people.

Handout included!

Approved for TESL Ontario PD credits

PD letter available on request

Limited to 18 participants

To reserve, email klackman@kenlackman.com.

Registration deadline is the day before the session.

Wednesday Dec. 4th 6:00 – 7:30

LSI Toronto

1055 Yonge Street

Room 2-10 on the 2nd floor

Come to the pub downstairs after the workshop for some informal discussion about teaching.

“Truthfully, the reports circulating about your workshop were nothing less than ecstatic.”

Scott Thornbury, at IATEFL 2019

Methods and activities for more effective teaching with less preparation